- During the recent Moscow visit of Hungarian Finance Minister Miklos Nyaady, Russian Minister of Foreign Trade A. I. Mikoyan stated that unless Hungary agrees to the Soviet terms presented in the current Russo-Hungarian economic talks in Moscow, the Soviet Union would not ratify the Peace Treaty. Mikoyan said the agreement was necessary on secondary as well as on major Potsdam points (i.e., German claims against Hungary amounting to $270,000,000 and payments of liabilities of former German firms in Hungary).
- The Hungarian Economic delegation arrived in Moscow 19 May, were entertained for 3 weeks, and during the last week discussed procedure and secondary points. The discussions took place in a more pleasant atmosphere than those held earlier in Budapest.
